So I have the delete items automatically archived in .csv files for the Check Delete Batch tool but that causes a dilemma because each hta filter produces a .csv file. Granted each file has the run date and time in the title but if you're looking for a specific delete (by for example UPC) you need to open hundreds of files.

copy *.csv ArchiveofCDB.txt

[Usage: create a new notepad file in the archive directory of your Check Delete Batches tool with the simple line copy *.csv ArchiveofCDB.txt Save the file with the .bat extension rather than .txt and click OK. The file is now executable and when double clicked will consolidate all the archive files.]

CAUTION: This file will consolidate all the .csv files from whatever folder it resides in so you probably don't want to place it on your c:\ drive and run.

Optional:

If you'd like a new field can be added to your RBX extract that will signify the Apply Date like below. ← This will help if you'd like to search for deletes and have the necessary information when the delete was processed at your store.

New delete information is available in the RBX extract that shows the date the Apply Date.

In addition, aside from the information above, which is geared towards filtering data. The initial simple .bat file will consolidate all of your delete files and free disk space for you. Say you run it every period then just delete the other archive files because you have a consolidated copy of the contents.

I'll have this updated on the wiki soon.

Thanks,
Jim
